Description of Opportunity

About the Role

What you need to know:

At AIG, we are constantly working to ensure that all employees have the training and skills they need to have a rewarding and successful career. Designed with that commitment at its core, our Early Career program provides a platform for participants to launch or accelerate their careers. Through a range of approaches, including innovative experiential learning and technical training, performance assessments, formalized mentoring, and exposure to senior leaders, our Early Career program offers unparalleled development opportunities for our diverse early career talent.

Whether you're a recent university graduate, someone with less than two years of work experience or a professional seeking a new career path, the program is designed to evolve with the rapid pace of technological advancements and changing employee preferences to provide opportunities for today's participants to become leaders capable of conquering tomorrow's challenges.

Preferred Skills

What we're looking for:

- AIG seeks candidates who have excelled in previous work experience, demonstrated outstanding academic and extracurricular achievement, possess strong analytical, quantitative, and interpersonal skills, and are enthusiastic about and committed to the insurance industry.
- The ideal candidates will be creative problem solvers who deliver for customers. They will possess a powerful blend of IQ (technical skills, consistent learning, statistical and financial acumen) and EQ (adaptive communication, empathy, listening skills and challenging with humility). We also look for a diverse background of experience, culture and thought. Successful candidates typically have a global perspective and a record of successful teamwork.
- Minimum 3.2 grade point average (unofficial transcript required upon application)
- Candidate for Bachelor's or Master's degree to be received no later than June 2022.
